

CATS CO adopts a Financial Institution's orphaned IT infrastructure

The Situation

A financial institution had a long history of being misled by IT solution providers, failing to move forward with the company's IT vision due to constantly revisiting problems that had supposedly been addressed before. This resulted in an extremely sensitive IT environment on the brink of failure: erratic WAN connection, a completely neglected LAN infrastructure, Active Directory corruption and no viable backups.

The Solution

Upon evaluation and audit of the network infrastructure, CATS CO was able to provide the institution with a detailed assessment and project plan to address the many, various known issues and security vulnerabilities. CATS CO's engineers were able to put the project into place, correcting the flaws and vastly improving network performance.

The Results

CATS CO's consultants, experienced with diverse software and hardware platforms, were about to properly configure and resolve prior issues. Along with bringing the entire network up-to-date, CATS CO saved the financial institution a considerable amount of reinvestment in hardware and licenses. With a stable IT environment, management was now able to move forward with their IT objectives while continuing to draw on CATS CO's expertise.
